The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

A WEST COAST reader has written to reproach me, courteously and in sorrow rather than in anger, for referring to the Japanese as "barbarians" and "savages".

He says (1) that these terms are unsuitable, and (2) that they are unworthy of this columnist. Having lived among the Japs for 43 years, he has found them cultured, courteous and democratic. They will return to democracy when they get out from under the military dictators who now hold them down.

Well, I hasten to admit that it isn't good form to toss opprobrium about loosely. Obviously, too, 73,000,000 Japanese can't all be bad. Further, a news analyst isn't permitted to have any emotions when he is writing.

I still feel, however, that the vast majority of the Japanese are savages at heart. It's easy enough to teach a savage to use a knife and fork, but that doesn't change his instincts.

I have before me a despatch from J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press war correspondent with United States troops on New Georgia Island out in the Pacific. He records a report made by Lieut. Nicholas T. Kliebert about the manner in which Jap soldiers bayoneted helpless, wounded Yankee soldiers to death.

In one instance five of the savages (?) propped a wounded man against a tree and took turns bayoneting him.

"They cut one of the poor lads from the top of his head to his feet," says the lieutenant. "Mean while laughing derisively. Then they shot him through the head."

On March 10, 1942, the British government issued Japan for barbarians at Hongkong, paralleling those during the sacking of Nanking in 1937. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the house of commons that the Japanese forces occupying Hongkong committed such horrors as the bayoneting of 50 helpless, bound officers and soldiers, and the indiscriminate raping and murder of Asiatic and European women.

Of course, one instance of that sort, or 10, shouldn't condemn an entire nation. But that's the pattern of the whole Japanese fabric. It may be said that the Jap soldiers are merely carrying out orders, for the purpose of terrifying enemy people. That's not good enough, however, for no civilized soldier would execute an order of that sort.

ONE OF THE outstanding characteristics of the savage is that he strikes by stealth. The Japs struck at Pearl Harbor while two of their emissaries talked peace in Washington.

From Emperor Hirohito, who places his seal of approval on such acts, down to the soldier who rapes the woman and then bayonets her, the Japanese have savage instincts, despite their veneer of civilization. I'm one of those who believe that human nature can be changed. On that basis the nature of the Nip-

Motorist Injured When Rod Pierces Floor Board

LISBON, Aug. 10.—Sheriff George Hayes was called to investigate an accident on Route 7, one-half mile south of East Fairfield, at 7 p. m. yesterday, when a car driven by John Kassi, 27, of Campbell, was damaged and the driver injured by a reinforcing rod from the road.

The construction, has been pared of the concrete surfacing, leaving three-quarter inch steel rods about 12 feet in length exposed. Kassi's car picked up one of the rods, which penetrated the floor of the car and injured his leg. His wife, Elizabeth and daughter, Betty, riding with him, were not hurt.

Ben Barrett, Former Coach At Struthers, Accepts Salem Post

Duquesne Graduate Named After Akron Appointee Declines Offer

Ben Barrett, head football coach at Struthers High school for the last five years, has been named football coach for Salem High school, replacing Johnny Scott of Akron, who declined to accept the position after the board of education offered it to him two weeks ago.

The hiring of the Struthers grid mentor last night climaxed a series of negotiations by school authorities since it became known that Scott had decided to accept a more lucrative offer in Akron.

Barrett, who had resigned his Struthers post after five years of successful coaching and teaching, will take over the duties left vacant here when Coach Ray Overturn was inducted into the Army in June. He will receive $2,300 annually.

Graduate of Duquesne

Barrett is a graduate of Duquesne university, where he played four years of football under two famous coaches, Elmer Layden, now coach of Notre Dame, and "Hunk" Anderson, former Notre Dame coach.

Barrett first coached at Ambridge, Pa., High school, later going to Struthers.

A native of Youngstown, Barrett has been working this summer as an electrician at the plant of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

The new Salem High school coach said he was glad to come to Salem, where he already is known in scholastic sports circles.

Married, he is the father of a son, Benjamin Barrett, Jr. The family hopes to move here in the near future.

Supt. of Schools E. S. Kerr last night announced the appointment of Miss Barrett-Dresses of East Palestine to teach commercial subjects at Salem High school, replacing Miss Myrtle Cratty, whose resignation was received recently.

Takes Government Job

Miss Cratty quit to accept a government position in the Panama Canal Zone, Supt. Kerr said.

Miss Dossie, a graduate of Mt. Union college, received her master's degree from the University of Pittsburgh. She was employed at a salary of $1,800 a year.

The superintendent disclosed that two teaching positions, which he thought he had filled at the last meeting, now are vacant. Alvin Smeizer of Negley, who had been offered a Junior High school teaching job, and Hazel Buckholdt of Garfield, offered a grade school teaching position, have declined.

School board members approved the re-appointment of Dr. R. T. Holzbach as school physician for the school term and the appointment of Miss Helen Alek, a recent High school graduate, to serve as a secretary in the principal's office. She succeeds Mrs. Vivian Wilt, who resigned.

Mahoning Jail Break Attempt Thwarted

Five men held for grand jury action on felony charges attempted to escape from the Mahoning county jail at Youngstown Monday night but were discovered as they saved bars on a window, Sheriff Ralph E. Elser said.

The men had sawed their way out of cells and out of the cell block into a corridor where they were working on the window when guards discovered them.

Elser identified the men as Alex Kpma and Nicholas Krish of Youngstown, charged with robbery; Robert Inskeep of Youngstown, charged with auto theft, Harvey Williams of East Liverpool, charged with breaking and entering, and Robert Chevalier of East Liverpool, auto theft.

Five men escaped from the jail last January in a similar manner. All were captured a few days later.

Smith intends to return west in his own airplane tomorrow. Bricker called off a scheduled trip to the American Legion convention in Cincinnati to see Smith.

OPEN SCHOOLS DAY EARLIER

Board Adopts Calendar Calling for Sept. 8 Opening and June 2 Close

Salem public schools will open Wednesday, Sept. 8, instead of Sept. 9, according to a telescoped school calendar which school board members adopted Monday night.

Beardmore Gladiolus Win In W. Va. Show

Harry and Fred Beardmore, whose gladiolus gardens at the rear of their home on Summit st. attract so much attention each summer, won many top honors when they exhibited some of their prize flowers at the West Virginia state show at Wheeling over the weekend.

In all, their spikes brought 22 first prizes, 10 seconds, two thirds and 16 special awards.

A large white gladiolus called "Myrna" was declared grand champion of the West Virginia exhibit, in addition to being named the most beautiful champion amateur spike and the champion seedling of the show. The beautiful white gladiolus was a product of the Beardmore brothers' experimentation in flower polination.

"Big Top," another giant from the Salem gardens, was voted the gladiolus with the largest bloom and longest flowerhead.

The Beardmores won a number of championship honors last year when they exhibited their gladiolus in shows in several states.

Fall Coon Dog Trials at Guilford Are Cancelled

LISBON, Aug. 10.—The Columbiana County Fish and Game association, at a meeting in the courtroom last night, cancelled its annual fall coon dog trials usually held late in August at Guilford lake.

Cancellation of the event, which normally attracts 500 to 1,000 persons from the tri-state area, is due to gas and tire rationing.

SOVIETS TRAIN HEAVY GUNS ON KHARKOV CITY

Increased Offensive Has Germans On Run In Ukraine Area, Report

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, Aug. 10.—Kharkov, third largest city in Russia, was reported within range of the Red army's heavy guns today as the fast-moving Soviet forces stepped up their assaults on the Ukrainian city and also on the big German base at Bryansk, 250 miles to the north.

One Soviet column has driven to a point 30 miles to the northwest of Kharkov while a second is within 12 miles of the city on the north and there are evidences that the groggy German army is beating a hasty retreat, a Russian war bulletin said.

The situation, the Russians declared, was similar in the north where the spearhead of the Red army had covered one third of the 75-mile distance between Orel, the German base which fell last week, and Bryansk.

The German radio, admitting the Red army was attacking in force, also disclosed the Russians had launched an offensive in the direction of Smolensk, 150 miles northwest of Bryansk. The Russians made no mention of this latest operation in the midnight communiqué.

The Kharkov assault resulted in the capture of more than 100 villages, the Russian communiqué said. Indications that the German forces were retreating in some disorder were seen in the Russian report of the capture of 212 tanks, 139 guns of various calibers, 96 mortars, 323 machineguns, 618 motor trucks, 30 radio transmitters, 11 supply and munitions dumps, 315 loaded railroad cars and 500 horse-drawn carts.

The speed of the Russian advance on Kharkov presented a definite danger of entrapment to the thousands of Nazi troops occupying the base, the communiqué indicated. The Soviet air force ranged behind the lines hammering at German rail communications upon which the garrison would be forced to rely for withdrawal.

War At Glance

AIR WAR: The RAF loosed a crusher assault on the German twin-town armament center of Mannheim-Ludwigshafen, setting roaring fires in the cities on opposite banks of the Rhine 43 miles southwest of Frankfurt. Factories in the cities of 350,000 normal population turn out tanks, engines and explosives. The Germans acknowledged considerable damage.

PACIFIC: Aircraft of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command smashed four Japanese bases with 224 tons of bombs. Liberators staged an obliteration raid with 103 tons on Salamaua in northwestern New Guinea, and Liberators and medium bombers joined in the heaviest assault yet made upon Vila airdrome on Kolombangara Island in the central Solomons.

ITALY: Troops patrolled the bomb-twisted cities of northern Italy to quell the wildfire of strikes spurred by war-weary and the underground, dispatches from Chiasso on the Swiss border reported. Walkouts in Genoa were said to have been halted by the military.

A Rome broadcast, meanwhile, declared Mussolini's ouster was a political event and from "the military point of view it enhanced Italy's will to resist." It termed an "insult" the expectation that "Italy should desert Germany at this crucial moment of the war and trade her national honor as an escape from fighting."

BALKANS: This political underbox was reported tense, and an unconfirmed rumor said a pro-Allied government had taken control in Bulgaria.

LOUIS J. MULBACH DIES IN HOSPITAL

Allied Bombers Drop Tons Of Bombs On 4 Jap Bases

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 10.—Allied bombers, ranged the whole length of the Southwest Pacific battle area yesterday, dropping 224 tons of bombs on four Japanese strongholds—Vila, Salamaua, Bairoko and Ambona.

There was no attempt at interception by enemy planes. The heaviest bomb loads were released on Salamaua and Vila, presumably the next major objectives of a two-pronged thrust directed at the great enemy base of Rabaul, New Britain.

Successive flights of Liberators roared over Salamaua, dropping 103 tons of bombs in 40 minutes. Heavy anti-aircraft fire met the first waves but when the last left the target area the airdrome, the town and harbor of this northwestern New Guinea base were obscured by clouds of smoke from fires and explosions. Damage was heavy, a headquarters communiqué said.

Liberators teamed with medium bombers, under a fighter cover of Wildcats, in two attacks on Vila airdrome, dropping 63 tons of bombs and setting large fires. The Kolombangara Island airdrome, one of the enemy's few remaining strongpoints in the central Solomons.

Across Kula gulf, torpedo and dive bombers smashed 22 tons of bombs upon much-battered Bairoko harbor, 10 miles north of Munda. Two thousand miles westward, Liberator bombers "in strength," the communiqué said, carried out a night assault on Ambona, the former Dutch naval base on the island of that name.

Heavy rain on New Georgia hampered ground forces advancing northward from Munda toward Bairoko.

Ground activity in the Salamaua sector was limited to patrolling and harassing artillery fire, the communiqué said.

E. Liverpool Youth Flees From Sheriff

LISBON, Aug. 10.—Clarence McKenna, 15, of East Liverpool, taken into custody for questioning in connection with the theft of two trucks last weekend in East Liverpool, escaped from the sheriff's office shortly after his arrival there late yesterday.

Sheriff George Hayes brought the youth to his office and was called to an adjoining room to take a long distance call. There was no one else in the office at the time and the youth took advantage of the opportunity to slip away.

HOMEWORTH DRIVER HURT IN ACCIDENT

Norman Thomas Pilmer, 65, of Homeworth, was injured when his car struck a machine driven by Isabelle Dunlap, R. D. 3, Alliance, on the Alliance-Homeworth rd., two miles south of Route 62, at 5:30 p. m. yesterday.

The Pilmer car hit the other machine, standing in the end of a driveway, and then hit a tree in the yard, after Pilmer lost control of the vehicle.

No one in the Dunlap car was injured. Pilmer was admitted to Alliance City hospital for treatment of a lacerated lip, several front teeth knocked out, several fractured ribs, leg and body bruises.

No one was injured, state highway patrolmen reported, in a collision of two cars driven by Michael Borelli, 19, of East Palestine, and Jacob L. Hum of Columbiana, both light on Route 164, south of Columbiana.

WARSHIPS AID BY SHELLING COAST AREAS

Yanks Capture 1,500 German Prisoners Behind Cape Orlando Lines

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 10.—Allied ground forces made progress everywhere along the front in Sicily, Allied headquarters announced today, as heavy warship units rained torrents of shells on the enemy's exposed coastal positions.

Announcing that American doughboys captured 1,500 German prisoners in landing behind the lines near Cape Orlando Sunday night—a feat which resulted in the fall of the enemy's northern coastal anchor positions at San Fratello and San Agata—a naval communiqué said heavy U.S. warships continued to batter a way for the seventh army.

British destroyers shelled the coastal road and railway at Riposto, north of Acireale and nine miles south of Taormina on the east coast, after blasting at similar targets at Taormina.

Make Steady Progress

The progress of the troops, spearheading toward the Messina tip, was officially described as "slow and steady" with the enemy resorting to "every device to hold up the relentless advance of our forces."

However, the Germans' position "daily becomes more difficult," the communiqué said, despite heavy demolitions, rugged country and lack of roads which interfere with swift Allied movement.

The British Eighth army was described as making considerable progress in "closing around Mt. Etna," advancing up the coastal shelf between that giant landmark and the sea, and pushing on beyond Bronte on the road west of Randazzo toward Randazzo.

The British were reported to have taken seven miles from Randazzo, communications hub of the enemy's position.

Flanking patrols of the British and Americans were said to have closed the gap between the two armies in that sector where the Americans had pushed past Casaro to within 10 miles of Randazzo.

The American raiding party which landed in the Germans' rear at Torrenova, just west of Cape Orlando, has succeeded in contracting the main body of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr.'s seventh army, it was stated.

Held Air Superlivity

This amphibious force, besides capturing 1,500 prisoners, destroyed important military installations and its operation was officially described as "highly successful."

Meanwhile the Allied air fleets were declared to have enjoyed "absolute air supremacy yesterday, not only over Sicily and the Messina strait but well into the toe of Italy."

Both the strategic and tactical air forces concentrated on bombing and strafing the enemy along his avenues of escape.

In all the operations four enemy aircraft were shot down yesterday while the Allies reported three of their own planes missing.

Meanwhile, improvement in Allied supply and communications was announced with minesweeper operations clearing the channel into the highly important east coast harbor of Catania.

OSTEOPATHS NAMED IN COURT ACTION

LISBON, Aug. 10.—The Hayes-Mayberry Osteopathic hospital, Inc., of East Liverpool, has been named defendant in a $50,000 damage action in the common pleas court, in connection with the death of a West Virginia youth in the institution.

The action was filed in court here by Melvin Burton of Weirton, W. Va., father of Clyde Burton, the decedent, and names John M. Baron, D.O., of Weirton, W. Va., and John W. Hayes, D.O. and C. M. Mayberry, D.O. of East Liverpool, as defendants.

The petition states the youth was suffering from an internal disorder, which Dr. Baron diagnosed as acute appendicitis and advised an immediate operation in the Hayes-Mayberry hospital, which he submitted. The petition charges the operation was performed by Dr. Hayes, assisted by Dr. Mayberry and Dr. Baron in an unskilled, careless and negligent manner, and that it was quickly concluded upon the advice of Dr. Mayberry.

A SPEECH IN PHILADELPHIA

Charles Daggart, father of a soldier, president of Local No. 1 of the Tank and Body Builders union of Philadelphia, and an employee of Quaker City Iron Works, isn't the only war worker who ever kept a strike from hatching, but his technique is special.

As described in a special dispatch to the New York Times, Daggart climbed on a boiler a few days ago to ask the plant's 450 workers to keep on working. He made a little speech—about the 98 employees in the armed forces, the one who had been killed and 23 reported missing. He asked other workers how they felt about their sons and brothers and husbands in the armed forces. He wound up by saying that the thing they were getting ready to stop work about—the war labor board's tardiness about reaching decisions—didn't seem very important compared to the effect of stopping work on American fighting men.

That's all there is to the story, except the ending. Daggart's fellow workers decided not to strike that day. Confronted with the unanswerable argument that work stoppages do hurt the war effort and the men who are doing the fighting, few workers would decide to strike any day. If one question could be kept in focus constantly until the war is won—How Will This Affect An American Soldier?—everybody up and down the line could quit thinking about American production. It would take care of itself.

LEGEND-BREAKING SUMMER

Commander Stalin, chortling with well-deserved satisfaction as his Russians celebrate Orel by chasing the German invaders out of Belgorod and threatening to move on Kharkov, says this disposes of the legend that Russia can't wage a summer offensive.

This is a summer for breaking legends. The shattered remnants are almost too numerous to mention. Such as the legend that insurmountable obstacles block complete cooperation between the United States and Great Britain; their invasion of Sicily was a triumph of cooperation.

It is the summer for breaking the legend that air power is only an arm of land forces; air power is earning the right to stand alone. It is the summer for breaking the legend, dear to the hearts of dictators, that self-governing people can be depended on to bungle the job. Working far below their possibilities, due to that bungling, self-governing peoples still are getting the edge on the dictators.

But while some legends are falling, others are being sustained, such as the legend that Germany cannot win a war. Twice in one generation the Germans have bled the world with their savage lust for power—and twice in one generation the Germans have made the fatal mistake of overestimating their strength in terms of an underestimated opposition. It will be a long time after 1943 before Germans find new allies to share their defeats.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Even in these busy times, with employers looking behind doors for someone to hire, there should be a thought for the tenth anniversary of a stirring event—rather, a trend of events.

In August, 1933, NRA was going great guns and the blue eagle's shadow fell over the land. John L. Lewis asked for a $5 basic wage for miners, and operators got into a fight. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, was signing up industries as fast as their representatives and trade associations could be taken into the fold. On a single day, steel, oil and lumber signed.

Henry Ford's rugged individualism affronted the patriotic sensibilities of the government. Codes of fair competition were a dime a dozen. Here and there, the hiring of employees was duly noted by the press and marked as a sign that recovery was imminent. Warnings were issued about a sudden rise in prices. Profiters and chiselers were shot on sight. Release of consumer buying power was the aim of all human activity. There were mass meetings and parades. The depression was going to be licked to a frazzle then and there.

It happened only 10 years ago.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, August 11.

WHILE THERE may be excellent prospects of reaching high place and security, probably through the intervention or friendly aid of those in influence and accepted position, yet several factors are at work to make imperative the use of personal harmony, amiability and good grace. Elders and associates, or institutions might be easily alienated. Placate these and safeguard all intimate relationships.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may marshal their forces and best abilities and resources for the attainment of high objectives, especially if this be in direction of public office, community service or other lofty ambition.

WPB AND THE CHURCHES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The War Production board went directly to the nation's churches today, for help—through appeal to their congregations—in the lagging home front war jobs.

Confronted with monthly failures of production to which include labor turn-over, WPB Vice Chairman met scheduled increases because of various factors Joseph D. Keenan said:

"We have to act fast because the situation cannot wait upon surveys."

He said he had called a conference of representatives here of various religious beliefs—Catholic, Protestant and Jew—to ask them to transmit their requis to the pastors and rabbis of America's churches and synagogues:

To appeal to the men and women workers of their congregation to stick to their present war jobs; to appeal to those who have quit war jobs to return to them wherever possible or to go into other war jobs; to appeal to those who can do so to get into war jobs.

Keenan, on leave from his post as secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor to head up labor production for WPB, said:

"I wish there was some way in which we could get these new wartime workers to take a pledge to their country that they would stay in their war jobs till the war ends."

Keenan said he hoped pastors where there was need would arrange day nurseries for workers' children since worry over their offspring has caused many mothers to leave factories.

HOME FRONT SECURITY

DETROIT, Aug. 10.—FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover expressed satisfaction today that law enforcement "has been able to keep the home front secure" despite wartime handicaps but warned that "dangerous days lie ahead."

Without specifically mentioning Detroit's race riots of June 21, Hoover said that a problem "rapidly reaching floodtide proportions" involved "civil violence, race riots and insidious campaigns against minority groups." He made his remarks in a speech prepared for the annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

"It is a national disgrace and a reflection upon all Americans," Hoover said, "that altercations between individuals can touch off community-wide conflagrations which are often seized upon by teenage hoodlums of both sexes to indulge in depredations of all kinds against property and persons."

Hoover said that at a time when law enforcement agencies were taxed more than ever the turnover in police personnel had assumed "alarming proportions," as high as 60 per cent in some cities, and that the "danger point" had been reached.

There must be more and more industry. It is essential to political and economic freedom, and anything that hinders industry is harmful to the American idea.—Henry Ford.

Concerning the Marriages of Cousins

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I AM IN receipt of a letter leading in part as follows:
"We are very interested in

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

records available to show that cousin marriage should be suppressed?

"I have known of quite a few of these marriages, and the children are all normal in every respect. My idea is that if the parents and grandparents of the cousins are normal people, their children will be the same. Naturally there are bad cousin marriages, but what about the rest of the people? Just to clear the records, what are the actual facts? Great Britain and Canada recognize such marriages. How many of the states do?"

"I believe it wouldn't matter whom people with bad heredity married, the children would be low grade."

Doctor Agrees with Statements
I agree with my correspondent in every statement. He, or she, has made a very scientific resume of the exact situation.

Two principals apply which may be stated thus:

If the heredity of the contracting parties is good, cousin marriages result in vigorous and healthy offspring. All the good qualities in the family tree are accentuated.

If there are bad heredity elements in the family tree, both cousins share them and they are likely to be accentuated in the offspring.

As my correspondent says, these bad hereditary traits are likely to crop up no matter whom the carrier of the genes marries, but it is true that a cousin marriage increases, in fact doubles, the chance of their appearance.

When we speak of bad hereditary traits we mean something that can be measured, such as imbecility, idiocy, feeble-mindedness, deaf-mutism, criminal tendencies, Huntington's chorea, muscular atrophy, etc.

Studies of Cousin Marriages
Alexander Graham Bell made many studies of the nation's blind and deaf and found a large number of cousin marriages. In certain inbred families on Martha's Vineyard he found 11 per cent of deaf-mutism. Studies made on one of the peninsulas of Chesapeake Bay showed an abnormal number of dwarfs.

Such are some of the bad results of cousin marriages. I suppose the remnants of the prejudice against it is that cousins who are feeble-minded or even mentally below par tend to cling together because they are uncomfortable in the presence of people mentally alert.

Examples of good cousin marriages are among the Puritans of New England, specifically the Edwards family. And the modern citizen of our land needs only to look at the White House, whose occupants represent a cousin marriage, and certainly the offspring are a handsome, healthy and brilliant group.

Raises "City Chickens"

SIoux CITY, Ia.—A successful "farm" is being operated almost in the heart of Sioux City's business district. The war pinched the garage business and at the same time created a demand for more food. So E. C. Gaynor, operator of a six-story garage, went into the chicken business. He has approximately 6,000 White Leghorns ranging from a few days to two months on the two floors of the garage. The chickens seem to thrive in their indoor quarters Gaynor said, and put on weight as rapidly as those reared in farmyards.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

Ann closed the door and returned to the bed. "I don't want to force confidences, Carol, but when I came back here today, I felt as if I was coming home. I mean, somehow you all seem closer to me than my own family."

Carol nodded. "I know what you mean. Once I went to a medium. She faltered shyly. "Well, not once, but a lot of times. I believe in spirits, though Paul says I'm a little nutty to. But anyway, this medium said that people you're dead, or maybe will go on knowing after you're dead."

Ann restrained a smile. "Perhaps that's true," she conceded cautiously. "I never thought of it just that way, but I'd like to believe it," she added gently. "I'd like to go on knowing you and Paul."

"That's good, because I'm going to die," said Carol very quietly. And then her quiet broke and she was sobbing her pitiful story in Ann's protective embrace, and Ann was rocking her back and forth as if she were a child.

"No, no," Ann denied fiercely. "I don't believe a word of it. And you mustn't either. You're just worn out with worry and keeping this to yourself."

"But my mother had it," Carol whispered. "And the doctor said if I didn't get away—"

"You will get away," Ann broke in.

"How?" Bitterness came back into Carol's voice. "We're down to our last dollar. Paul was expecting that Wolfgang would begin to make a reputation and bring in stud fees; he expected that with the spring coming on we'd make a couple of big sales, but nothing's happened."

"But if you'd only tell Paul, he'd try to do something else."

"He can't do anything else," Carol's head raised proudly. "I wouldn't want him to do anything else."

"Forgive me," Ann said, above the lump that suddenly crowded her throat. "I thought a few minutes ago that you didn't love him."

"Maybe you thought I didn't love the baby too—"

Carol's voice quivered. "Oh, Ann, I'm frightened. I want to live, I don't want to die! I won't die," Ann cried passionately. "Honestly you won't!"

Carol sank back on the pillow. Peace lay upon her face, as if the stormy weeping had washed her clean of fear and doubt.

The baby began to whimper. Carol sat up. She reached out her arms. "Ann, bring her to me," she said.

Ann left Carol with the baby, and returned in answer to Paul's enraging shout. "Say, Ann! Where are you! Come on down here!"

She found him standing in the entrance way with his mother. Rowdy was there, too. The old lady looked at Ann with that deeper sight than is given to mortals who can see only with their eyes. "Paul says you have come to live with us for awhile, and that is good," she said.

"Mom thinks Rowdy's got something!" Paul broke in excitedly. "It's her hunch to go ahead and put her in the show!"

"Oh, Mrs. Freund!" Ann was speechless.

"She is a different dog than when you took her," the old lady said. She ran her gnarled hand over Rowdy's back. "You are to be congratulated. She shows fine care. Good strong bones, she has, a beautiful smooth coat—and best of all, the Rheingold head and neck."

"When Mom says that," cried Paul with jubilation, "it's money in the bank!"

She felt Paul's arm around her shoulder. "This means we go to work, partner. Ready?"

"Ready!" she rejoined.

The days flew, with June approaching too swiftly, and gusts of unseasonable summer weather. "Is the Morris and Essex show always held on Decoration day?" Ann ventured.

"Always," Paul told her.

"I was hoping they could put it off this year until next month."

"Lord, no! We'd be wrecks if this kept up much longer."

It was astonishing how life revolved around Rowdy's well-being for those weeks. Anything you do intensively can become the center of your universe, Ann discovered. That was why, she concluded, there were so many lopsided people in the world. "I must be careful," she adured herself, "or I'll turn into one of these doggy women with run-over heels and straggly hair."

Taken as a hobby dog business was first-rate, but as a profession, it was like holding on to something with your finger tips. The day Rowdy got into a scrap with the cat and had her ear scratched was like a nightmare. "That ear gets infected and lops, and we're finished," Paul proclaimed ominously. "Thank heavens," Carol confided to Ann, "he's so engrossed in Rowdy that I can get away with murder and he doesn't notice."

Carol's "murder" consisted of long hours in a steamer chair in the sun, and bed at eight o'clock each night. "You look better, Ann approved.

"Yah," old Mrs. Freund agreed, "she looks better."

Paul said, "When our ship comes in, I'm going to send you off to Atlantic City, young lady, to rid you of that cold."

It was astonishing, too, how one could tune in to another kind of rhythm. At first Ann had thought, I can't live without a telephone. Christopher had grumbled, too. "What the blazes kind of an idea is this anyway?" he telegraphed furiously the first evening. Ann had giggled; this was adding injury to insult. And then, the next morning, there'd been another wire. "Flying unexpectedly to the Coast." For an instant, the bottom had seemed to drop out of everything. All the lights in the world went dark. I'm head over heels, Ann thought, feeling sick about it.

A few days later, there was another wire from Los Angeles, and a few days after that, one from San Francisco.

"I wonder what's happened to Wain," Paul said on an average of twice a day. "Looks like he's sore at us."

"Mr. Wain has a great many faults," said Ann. "But he's not the sort that goes in for being sore. Besides," she flared, "what's he got to be sore about?"

"Plenty," Paul answered with satisfaction. It was one of the days when Rowdy was eating like a horse, and looking like a million dollars.

With the approach of summer, tourists began to straggle in and, every once in a while, Ann woke to the clatter of dishes, or the sudden sound of a child's shrill voice, or the backfire of a car hastening on-wards.

One night—it was after eleven—Rowdy barked long and loud as a car drove up the road between the cottages and stopped at the cabin next to Ann's.

"Why do you have to set yourself as night watchman for the whole countryside?" she grumbled, as Rowdy's unsolicited contribution set a dozen dogs in the kennels to talking things over. Then came Paul's sharp whistle through the clear air, followed by obedient silence from the Dane contingent.

Ann listened. Now what had Santa Claus brought her? A family with a caravan of pots and pans? A baby who would caterwaul intermittent complaints to the high heavens? Oh, dear, she thought, this is worse than waiting for the other shoe to fall.

After a space, she could hear stealthy sounds of someone walking about, sounds that threatened to drive Rowdy out of her curious wits. A light flickered; a door closed; and then there rose in the night the low, formless whistle that a man makes when he thinks he's musical. It was a melody of a couple of tunes, the dominant of which seemed to be something about a man in the umbrella business. Unfortunately, the whistler couldn't get over the last hurdle of the refrain; he would advance too a point, break, and begin all over again. Finally, in desperation, Ann went to work on it. She discarded the indiscriminate melody and kept to the umbrella end of it, managing it very adequately. The whistler paused as she offered the correction. Silence.

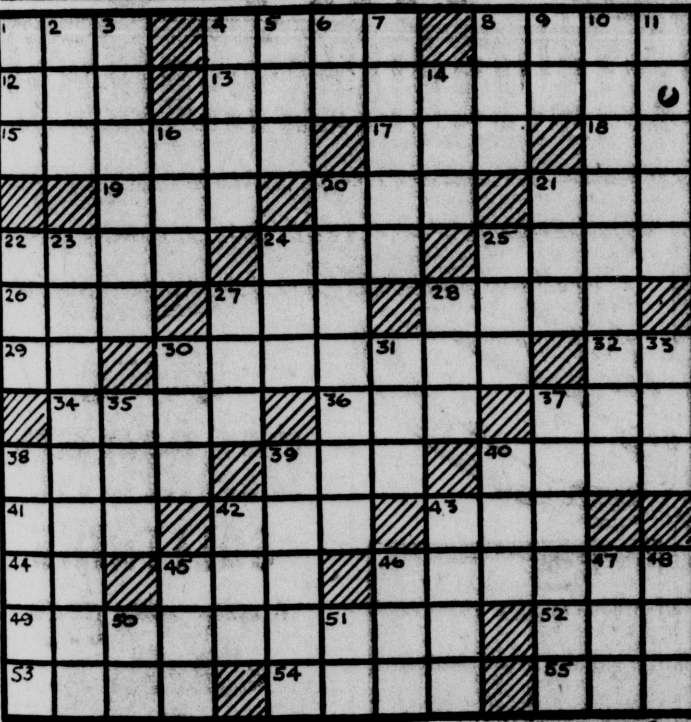

Then he began again, finishing up in a burst of triumph. "Just as if he thought it out all by himself," Ann muttered furiously, struggling against the insanity of going on and on with the thing. Sleep was driven from her completely. She found herself humming the tune, breathing it, keeping time to it with her toes tapping against the covers.

About three a. m., Rowdy scratched herself with a great thumping of tail and paw. Ann sat up with a start. It began all over again. To her obsessed ears, Rowdy's thumping turned into a drum accompaniment of the tantalizing refrain. It was dawn when she decided that sleep and she were definitely not on speaking terms. True, it was an hour before her regular morning walk with Rowdy, but an extra mile or so would do them both good.

Rowdy agreed at once that it was a good idea, and stretched out with anticipation as Ann put the coffee pot on the electric plate. This was Mrs. Freund's only concession to Ann's request that she at least be allowed to make her own breakfast.

"And what will you eat? Coffee

Allied Experts Study Here To Rebuild Post-War World

(By United Press)

While the plaster is still falling in their buildings back home from the weight of German, Italian and Japanese bombs, a group of industrial experts from the Middle East, the Orient and South America is in the United States studying the best methods of putting their world back together again as soon as hostilities have ceased.

Members of the party are export agents of this country's largest producer of steel, and in classroom sessions at eastern mills they are making an exhaustive study of the vital building material—from the time it is mined in the form of iron ore through its many applications in modern industry.

The men have geared themselves to a fast pace that would leave a less earnest and serious group exhausted.

There is an important reason for the speed. A Latorre of Brazil remarked, "We must work fast," he said. "We must absorb every last bit of information while we are here this time, for we may never have the rare opportunity to visit your country again."

The group is remarkably cosmopolitan, although representing nations of widely separated ideas and customs. One of the party—best identified by his habit of constantly jotting down notes in a little dog-eared book—is S. G. Tsimis, son of Greek parents, born in Italy, educated in France and a citizen of Egypt.

He was asked what in his opinion will be the greatest need after the war in his part of the world.

"It is for America to come to us with merchandise and modern equipment and modern ideas," he answered.

"The people in Egypt and in my native Greece look to America more than to any other country," he continued. "They know that all other countries whose businessmen have come to sell them goods—the Germans, the Italians, the French—were primarily interested in exploiting them and taking their land."

At Birmingham, Ala., the group was overwhelmed by the degree of industrial activity in what they had supposed was strictly a land of agriculture.

"Why, I had always considered that section one for farming alone," remarked W. J. Aranda of Chile. "It is surprisingly different. Instead I found huge plants producing war materials."

The group is repeatedly impressed by the number of women who are performing duties in American industry which once were considered for men only.

"It is a very fine thing, all these American women we see helping with your war effort," said Y. L. Tong, one of the Chinese representatives. "And they are doing such a good job of it—as good as any man."

China is already at work on a 10-year plan of industrial rebuilding outlined by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, according to C. F. Cheng, whose parents are now in a Japanese prison.

"China will need many products from the United States," he said. "Of course, we must almost build an entire new country after the war, and our people must be taught the application of modern machinery and industrial products." He will return to China after his training as an industrial engineer.

Up to the time of the Civil War each American soldier cooked for himself.

4-State Milk Group 'Tours' Washington

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Described as "disappointed and seeing red," a delegation representing milk producers in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and West Virginia planned to confer today with representatives of the War Food administration in an effort to obtain authorization of an increase in farm milk prices in the four-state area.

Charles W. Holman, executive secretary of the National Cooperative Milk Producers federation, said the delegates agreed to "stay in Washington until someone is found who has the authority to give us a direct answer" to a request for a 25 per cent increase in milk prices.

He said an Office of Price administration spokesman told the group yesterday the government would not approve any increases in agricultural prices until it "decides how and when it is going to operate its (price) roll-back program."

Holman said the OPA advised them the nation's farmers could expect little, if any, price increases until the administration's price adjustment policy is determined.

The delegates, appointed at a recent meeting in Cleveland, claim a 25 per cent increase is necessary to foster needed production hikes, and cover costs in operating costs. Holman said OPA maintained it was not responsible for price policies to up production and that the only way it could authorize an increase was for milk producers to show that current prices are below production costs.

He described the delegates as "disappointed and seeing red" after yesterday's conference, and said they agreed to meet WFA representatives today on "stay in Washington until someone is found who has the authority to give us a direct answer."

The committee, chosen at a recent meeting in Cleveland, includes O. E. Anderson, Youngstown; H. P. Simmons, Detroit; S. K. Bachman, Portsmouth, Ohio; Carl Hedges, Indianapolis; and J. I. Shafer, Akron, oil producers, and B. L. Wilson, Huntington, W. Va., and C. W. Hunt, Indianapolis, distributors.

NEW FUR COATS COMBINE PRACTICALITY WITH BEAUTY

A recent fashion show in New York featured furs that combined wartime practicality with post-war beauty. They were designed by I. J. Fox, and pointed out the importance of durable war furs fashioned in interesting new treatments for war use and dress affairs. One of the most unusual outfits was an aeroplane suit shown left, of soft black Tingona lamb trimmed with white lamb revers, sleeve and trouser cuffs. It has a short double-breasted pea-jacket with slit side pockets and six white lamb buttons. The Persian lamb tuxedo coat, center, has deep turnback cuffs, wide shoulders and deep armholes to wear over suits and uniforms. At right is a Baum-marten dyed skunk greatcoat, which is a sturdy, serviceable warm skunk treated to look like a costly fur. answers would be found if the people took a more active interest in governmental problems. Dr. C. W. Kellogg was program chairman.

Praises Ohio For Food Production

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Food Administrator Marvin Jones, calling on the nation for voluntary teamwork to assure success in its vast food program, cited Ohio as an example of what other states could do to aid production efforts.

"In the Buckeye state all of the statewide farm groups, the Extension service, the Agricultural Adjustment agency, Vocational Agricultural and other organizations have gotten together to work for the common good," Jones told a radio audience last night. "They have buried any differences and are working together as a unit."

"The report from that state is encouraging because this organization of teamwork extends down to the various communities that make up that great state," Jones asserted federal agencies also could not make the program succeed because "this country is too broad, too far flung, too varied in its production to have the work done by directives from Washington."

He said there was a need for increased production all along the line, that 1944 goals would be announced well in advance of planting time and expressed belief that the nation would have adequate food for "a good, wholesome diet."

Calling for an end to "useless bickering, conflicts and arguments," Jones said every farmer, livestock grower, every producer, including victory gardeners, must help essential production while processors, wholesalers and retailers must join to assure proper distribution.

Concerning Ohio's cooperative example, Jones added:

"The reports of Ohio are inspiring. It makes us feel, yes, makes us know, that this job can be done not by ourselves but by all the citizens of this great country. In Ohio the men, women and children are all on the teams and are trying to play their part."

Ohioan Starts 1,200-Mile Covered Wagon Trek to Minnesota

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10.—A covered wagon drawn by three percherons rumbled into Cleveland today, carrying 66-year-old George Martin on a 1,200-mile journey to Minnesota timberlands and the fulfillment of a dream.

Martin, bronzed and wiry native of Nebraska, started his westward trek yesterday from Painesville, where he has managed a farm for the past four years. At the end of his journey, which he expects to complete in two months, he will clear part of his 500 acres of ground near International Falls, Minn., and build a home.

"When I get out west and get a home established I'll send for my wife and we'll start life all over again," Martin said. "My forefathers did it. America's forefathers did it, why can't I?"

The modern pioneer began to construct his modern prairie schooner two months ago, using an ordinary farm wagon, cutting his own bows and covering them with khaki which he stitched together himself. It's loaded with a bed, cook stove and all the things he expects to need for his home. He'll cook his own meals, camp along the roadside at night.

As the schooner moved slowly along Cleveland's Lakeside boulevard, scores of persons gathered to cheer the traveler and motorists on the busy thoroughfare sometimes stopped to give him right-of-way. He was a little surprised at the attention.

"I've wanted to do this for at least 12 years now," he said. "It seems a perfectly natural thing to do. I don't need any ration coupons for my transportation, and I'm not afraid of anything that will come my way."

LISBON BRIEFS

War Reporter's Notes From Abroad

By HAROLD V. BOYLE
WITH THE AEP IN SICILY—Leaves from a war correspondent's notebook:
Signs of increasing dissatisfaction between German and Italian soldiers are multiplying.
The latest evidence—evidence of a kind that cannot be misinterpreted or doubted—was the discovery of seven wounded Italian soldiers in San Stefano when Americans entered the town after working their way through one of the most diabolic mine fields ever laid.
The Italians said they had been shot by their German comrades when they tried to give themselves up. Then the Nazi fled the town and entrenched themselves in a new line of hills closer to Messina, the coming Axis graveyard in Sicily.
Earlier in the campaign, the Italians complained, the Germans forced them into front lines ahead of the Nazi minefields, where they were blown up when forced to retreat.
Captured Nazis have complained bitterly of sabotage by native civilians and asserted that Italians fire their last bullets at them before surrendering.

"We shot one German sniper hiding in a tree through the arm after killing his buddy," said Sergeant Michael Bozovich of Pittsburgh. "He told us they were making their last stand and were short of chow and water. He said they came here June 11 after two months in France where he said German soldiers now are afraid to go about at night because there is so much sabotage and the civilians hide and shoot them."

Night bombing, a device used often by the Germans to harass front line troops who are pushing them back, plays some weird tricks. One bomb that fell among a scattered group of sleeping soldiers blew the bed of one right up into a tree. The explosion rolled him several feet. He was unhurt, but didn't sleep much the rest of that night.

Two bombs fell about 10 and 20 feet from the ground bunks of Pvt. Daniel J. Sullivan of Braintree, Mass., and Pvt. Norbert B. Wittrock of Cincinnati. They escaped without a scratch. When daylight came they discovered that the bomb had hurled a 100-pound rock into the air and dropped it within four inches of their heads. Asked where they would sleep the next night they said:

"We're staying right where we are. That looks like the luckiest spot in Sicily."

It was interesting to watch the reaction of the 45th Infantry division after it had gone into battle for the first time against the Germans. Before the attack they were a bit nervous—like a young boxer fighting an ex-champion who might still have one last haymaker in his system.

In one battle the boys from the 45th proved to their own and the high command's satisfaction that they could take the Germans on their own terms and roll them back on their heels. After that battle Allied commanders knew that their latest combat division ranked with their best. The boys themselves were a little awed by their own success.

"You know those Germans have been putting out so much of that superman propaganda for so long we had come to half believe it without knowing it," one soldier told me. "Hell, there's nothing super about those guys. They're good fighters but a bullet goes through them just as easily as it does an Italian and they seem just as anxious to save their skins as the next man."

Navy "Miracle Department" Run By Repair Officer, Men

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press Correspondent
LONDONDERRY.—An Irish newspaper man came up from Belfast, took one look at the ship repairs done in the U. S. Navy operating base here, and immediately dubbed Lt. Comdr. David H. Conklin of Battle Creek, Mich., the "miracle man."
Conklin doesn't mind the expression—which he tries to live up to—though it has caused him a great deal of embarrassment. Everyone at the base started calling him miracle man and the yeoman in his office would answer the phone with "Miracle Department."

Conklin, 29, has been in the Navy only two and a half years as a reserve. He has as his assistant Lt. L. F. Hill of Orlando, Cal., who was an oil engineer in Iraq when the war broke out. Under them are four officers who know as much about ship repair work as anyone in the business.

Lt. Ben Meyer of Dover, Del., who has been in the Navy 29 years and specializes in hull repair; Lt. James E. Teague of Boston, 19 years of Navy experience, who does electrical work; Lt. (JG) J. R. True, Kewanee, Ill., 19 years' experience, radio specialist, and Machinist (Warrant Officer) G. R. Myers of Louisville, Ky., with 15 years' experience.

Many of the destroyers and corvettes of the North Atlantic convoys are repaired by them when they've been damaged by submarines or the prodigious waves which make the North Atlantic what it is, and each job leaves not only Irishmen but the British, Canadian and American crews amazed at the speed with which they work.

Does "Impossible" Job
Myers was once commended for one of his jobs—pronounced "impossible" at the time. A U. S. destroyer came into the base with her port propeller jammed, and for naval reasons it was necessary that she sail the next morning at high tide.

In the first place, the drydock didn't appear quite large enough to take her. That was overcome by running her in on the bias. The next obstacle was the fact that the dry-dock pumps simply didn't operate fast enough. Myers went out and borrowed five fire department pumps to drain the dock and between 11 p. m. and 8 a. m. the destroyer was drydocked and repaired. Such a job may sometimes take as much as three or four days.

Another job which amazed some Canadian and British officers was the installation of certain gear which normally takes three visits to port for a ship to complete.

tank, though quickly made, looks like the modernistic bridge of a destroyer and is equipped with a graceful winding steel staircase on the outside for benefit of the welders and their cumbersome diving equipment.

This base, incidentally, is looked upon by Canadians as their second home. They can be serviced at other bases, but here, as one of them said, "It's just like another home port. The American methods are a lot like Canadian ones and they've never let us down yet."

HOME LOAN CREDIT GOOD DESPITE WAR

(By United Press)
CHICAGO.—The United States Savings and Loan league, in a recent review of the effects of the war on the sources of home-owner credit, reported that 1943 new mortgages, as compared to $217,515,000 of new mortgages, as compared to $247,515,000 for the same period in 1940, in spite of building restrictions, according to Ralph H. Cake, Portland, Ore., league president.

In Arizona, Indiana, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nevada, Ohio, Oklahoma, Texas and West Virginia the savings and loan associations made a larger dollar volume of loans during the first quarter of 1943 than they did three years ago, Cake said.

"This changing distribution of the lending volume of the system is a result of war shifts in population and intensified industrial development in some areas," he said.

This group of states, he said, accounted for 37 per cent of the savings and loan volume for the first quarter this year and for only 26 per cent of it in 1940.

Next time you get sore . . . grab your pencil . . .

Next time you're sore at the Nazis or Japs, just sit down for a minute. And if there's a pencil handy, do a little figuring—something like this . . .

Sure, taxes are higher. You're paying more than you used to. And the cost of living hasn't gone down any either. That's costing you more. But . . .

Chances are, you're making more, too. And maybe somebody else in the family's working. Maybe one of the girls is bringing home a pay envelope every week—and pretty good pay at that. Chances are, there's more cash coming into your home right now than there has been for a long, long time. What's more . . .

Maybe you were going to get a new bus this year. Every year, you know, millions of people did get new ones. Or radios. Or refrigerators. Anyway, it's a cinch you'd have spent some money this year on things you can't buy now.

So what? So maybe you can put more of your family earnings into War Bonds! Not 10% or 12% or 15% or 20%—but all you can! If you and every other American who has an income will sharpen up your pencils and figure out how you can save an extra dollar here and another there that can go into War Bonds—if you'll keep on figuring and saving—you'll provide a weight of metal that will snap the Axis' spine like a rotten stick!

Let's pour it on! And keep pouring it on till the murderous fools who have defiled our soil, butchered our sons, broken up our homes—who have refused to let us live and work in peace—are smashed utterly to dust!

Sheens Capture Third Round Championship In Class B

Drop Twin Beauties 7 To 6 For Sixth Win Of Series; Scotts, Furnaces 'A' Victors

Sheens captured the third round championship of the Class B softball league by virtue of a 7 to 6 win last night over the Twin Beauty nine. The climax gave the Sheens six wins to one loss for the series.

The Class B fans last night also saw the Slovaks beat the Friends, 8 to 2.

In the Class A encounters, Scotts edged the Modern Grills, 6 to 5, and the Electric Furnaces drubbed Demings, 12 to 8.

Sheens won their Class B title with a seven-run spurt in the third inning. The Twin Beauties threatened all the way, scoring four runs in the first of the third, another in the fourth and still another run in the seventh. The Friends were able only to get two hits as they bowed to the Slovaks. The new Class B round opens Thursday.

The Modern Grills threatened to shade Scotts in the Class A tussle but their four-run blast in the closing frame fell short. Scotts scored their runs early in the game. A six-run spurt in the seventh brought the Furnaces' win over Demings, although the losers had 11 hits to the Furnaces' eight.

Two Percent Sales Tax Recommended

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10.—State Rep. Howard M. Metzbaum, Cleveland Democrat, today made public a letter requesting Gov. John W. Bricker to call a special session of the Ohio legislature to consider reduction of the sales tax from 3 to 2 per cent.
The letter asserted the governor indicated in the latest budget submitted to the legislature that the sales tax would produce $41,000,000 in 1943 and $36,000,000 in 1944, but that these figures under-estimated revenues by "many millions of dollars."

"The treasurer reports that total sales tax collections for this year, as of July, are $565,804 greater than for the same period last year," Metzbaum wrote. "On that basis, the surplus at the end of 1943 will be $18,646,798 greater than the budget estimate. At the end of 1944, the surplus will be $41,646,798."
"Present figures indicate the total revenue for the biennium from the sales tax will be approximately $119,000,000. Inasmuch as the surplus will be more than one-third of this amount, it seems logical to decrease the sales tax at this time to 2 per cent."

The early Mormons of Utah minted gold coins for their use during the California gold rush and, in addition, supplemented these coins with tithing script which was issued by the church.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

posene can be changed—in the course of generations.
Meantime it's vital that we recognize what sort of people we are up against. We have a bitter job to do, and that is to render them so utterly impotent in the military sense that they won't in a hundred years be able to arm themselves again to commit aggression.

And when this war is over we shall have fought in vain if such criminals as Hirohito and Tojo and Hitler and Mussolini—and their captains—are brought to book for their sins. We said this during the last war, too. There was a lot of talk about punishment of war guilt—hanging the Kaiser, and that sort of thing—but in the end nobody had the guts to do anything about it.

Even now some say that terrific international scandals will be exposed if the big war criminals are placed on trial. Others claim that such trials will establish precedents which might be turned against one of the Allied nations if it happened to be defeated in a subsequent war. Still, the Allied chiefs have promised that the guilty shall suffer after this war, and all the signs are that they intend to carry this out.

STATE WMC OFFICE TO BE ESTABLISHED

Director Will Be Named To Supervise Federal Employment

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Aug. 10.—Regional Director Robert C. Goodwin of the War Manpower Commission today announced a new state WMC office, supervising the Federal Employment Service in Ohio (USES), would be located in Columbus and a new state WMC director designated next week.

The move follows recent Washington orders placing administration of WMC areas under state offices, instead of regional offices as formerly, Goodwin explained.
Goodwin announced the plans late yesterday after Gov. John W. Bricker telegraphed Paul V. McNutt, WMC head in Washington, protesting proposals to establish the Ohio WMC office here.

Goodwin said the decision to locate the new office in Columbus was reached last Saturday during a conference with WMC officials in Washington but that announcement of the plan was being withheld pending establishment of similar state offices in Michigan and Kentucky.

He said consideration was given proposals to locate the office in Cleveland "solely because area manpower directors who operate the manpower commission program in Ohio have been reporting to Cleveland since the program was first set up, and we did not want to make any decision at this crucial time that would in any way delay our service to war industry."

He added that the eventual decision was "based upon the necessity of maintaining close relations with other government agencies, particularly the selective service division of the WMC itself, which maintains state offices located in Columbus."
"The regional office will remain in Cleveland and will continue to deal on a day to day basis with the regional offices of the war production board, war labor board and other war agencies."

"The WMC program in Ohio will be administered through the state office in Columbus... the change in no way affects the present area directors."

Hershey To Testify On Fathers' Draft

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey frankly admits "there are too many imponderables involved" right now to venture a guess as to what may happen in the father-draft situation.

"You tell me what the situation in Europe, in Russia and in the Pacific will be in two weeks or a month, and I'll tell you how the draft will be working," said the major general, here to testify before a house military affairs subcommittee.

"I can't make any predictions about fathers or essential workers—too many imponderables are involved," he added in a press conference, "but you may rest assured that we will scrape the bottom of the barrel and pool all the manpower we have before we turn to fathers."

Rep. John M. Costello (D-Calif.), subcommittee chairman, asked the draft director:

"Will fathers in some states be called before fathers in other states?"

"We are trying to work that problem out," Gen. Hershey answered. "But non-fathers will exist in labor areas because we are constantly afraid to cut too close to the minimum in productive centers."

15 In Family Aid War Effort As Shipbuilders

PORTLAND, Ore.—Mr. and Mrs. John H. Braukmiller of Portland, Ore., challenge the nation. They are ready at any moment to defend their title as the "shipbuildingest family in America."

All the men are shipfitters. The girls are welders, welders' helpers and shipfitters' helpers. The family payroll averages $996 a week.

SCHOOLS TO OPEN ONE DAY EARLIER

School board members last night voted approval of a "workshop on elementary education," to be conducted here the week of Sept. 27 by Harold C. Shane of the state department of education and several assisting specialists loaned by state universities.

The visiting specialists will aid the grade school teachers by recommending certain instruction procedure and aiding the teachers with specific problems, Supt. Kerr said.

Compare Attendance
The superintendent reported that during the 1942-43 school term the average daily attendance in the elementary buildings was 1,440.8 and in the high school, 787.8. This compares with the respective grade school and high school averages of the previous year of 1502.4 and 821.8.

Although the state has boosted its per pupil payment to the schools by $1.98 a year, the additional revenue will not be gained until next year since the state law does not go into effect until Jan. 1.

The per pupil reimbursement by the state at the present time is $30.60, the increase to bring the total to $32.58 after the first of the year.

Tiny Baby, Kidnaped Week Ago, Is Found Alive and Healthy

(By Associated Press)
ALBANY, Ore., Aug. 10.—Tiny Judith Gurney, kidnaped from the Albany hospital last Tuesday, was found alive and healthy last night, and police today investigated the bizarre story of a 26-year-old army wife charged with the abduction.

District Attorney Harlow Weinrick said the woman, Mrs. Catherine Wright, fooled her husband, a young couple living with her and neighbors through nine months of feigned pregnancy, then appeared at home last Tuesday with a two-day-old baby.

She confessed to a child-stealing charge, Weinrick said, but only after her story of giving birth to the child in the Albany hospital, had been refuted by nurses and doctors who said she had not been a patient and by a doctors' examination which Weinrick said proved she had not borne a child within five years.

There was evidence of an earlier birth, but Weinrick did not disclose what had happened to that child. Neighbors said Mrs. Wright had no child at home until last Tuesday.

Judith, eight ounces heavier than when she disappeared, was restored to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Gurney, who had pleaded by press and radio for the kidnaper to give up the tot.

Mrs. Gurney cried with joy and Gurney, a local labor union official, shouted, "Oh, boy, we are happy!" Judith went to sleep.

Tax Collector Is Ired
By Quarterly Payments
CLEVELAND—James Gill, cashier at the Internal Revenue offices here, wishes sometimes that taxpayers wouldn't take things so literally.

For example, Gill points to a torn slip of paper which, he explains, is one individual's first quarterly income tax payment—one-fourth of a money-order.

But many people, says Gill, are more liberal—they send in two income tax payments at the same time, that is, half a money-order.

Now Gill has the added burden of writing to the senders of parts of money-orders to ask for the other pieces so he can paste them together and cash them.

Atlas To Take Over Portage Army Depot

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The Portage Army Ordnance depot at Ravenna, O., will be turned over to the Atlas Powder Co., for operation on a cost-plus-fixed-fee basis for greater efficiency, the War department announced today.
The depot is the second to be placed in the hands of private corporations. Procter and Gamble, Inc., has taken over a depot at Milan, Tenn. Both concerns also operate ammunition loading plants near the depots.

"The transfer from army to private management of these installations is an experiment designed to take advantage of every possible opportunity to achieve the greatest overall efficiency in prosecution of the war," said the announcement.
Workers at the depots, all under civil service, are being offered employment with the new management at no reduction in wages, the announcement stated. "They will receive payment from the government for all accrued annual leave, and those with less than five years service will get refunds of their wage deductions for civil service retirement pay," it added.

COULD YOU USE $500 TOO? . . .

A factory policeman formerly held a job that paid very little money. Bills had piled up. His new job was at stake. He came to The City Loan quite upset. With complete understanding of his situation, a loan of $500 was quickly granted. You can imagine his relief as he made the rounds and paid everything. Besides, he was able to stock up on coal and other things needed. Now he has only one place to pay . . . a little at a time which he can easily afford.
